INTERIM America announces new Middle Management Services

INTERIM America, a leader in high caliber executive level interim management services, is pleased to announce the addition of interim resources services for middle managers.

INTERIM is seeking to capitalize on an under-served interim market: clients who need on-demand, experienced middle management talent to protect against business interruptions that could be caused by key vacancies, transitional periods, or talent gaps. INTERIM America specializes in providing corporations and investment leaders with the highest caliber executive level talent, turnaround management and business support services.

“We know our client’s organizations are leaner today so the absence of a key line manager can have a significant negative impact on business operations. In response we have built a substantial pool of seasoned top business managers in multiple disciplines that can be deployed quickly and hit the ground running day one”, said Chris LaCorata Principal/ Managing Partner of INTERIM America.

The interim manager business will run as a separate service line within the INTERIM organization and initially focus on industrial/ consumer manufacturers, distributors and field service sectors. Positions will range from plant/facility managers to department level and field service managers.

INTERIM America provides management solutions for short-term business challenges, deploying seasoned professionals with extensive leadership and management experience on-site for 6-18 month periods. www.InterimAmerica.com
